

Professional Bio (Revised – Gospel Centered)

Robert Thibodeau is a 30-year ministry veteran and Christian media pioneer dedicated to advancing the Gospel through modern technology. He is the former host of the Kingdom Cross Roads Podcast, where he conducted over 1,200 interviews and published more than 1,600 episodes, amplifying the voices of faith-based leaders around the world.

He is the original founder of the Evangelism Radio Station—an early online platform dedicated to broadcasting Gospel-centered programming 24/7—which helped numerous ministries reach the world for over 15 years with the message of Christ.

Robert is also the founder of the online TV network JesusSaid.tv, a media platform devoted to helping ministries share and teach the Gospel using the latest technology in online television and digital streaming.

With a background in military leadership and three decades of ministry experience, Robert brings clarity, structure, and vision to his mission: equipping ministries to leverage media effectively while keeping the message of Jesus Christ at the center.

Host-Read Interview Introduction

“Today’s guest is Robert Thibodeau, a Christian media pioneer and 30-year ministry veteran dedicated to advancing the Gospel through modern technology. He is the former host of the Kingdom Cross Roads Podcast, where he conducted over 1,200 interviews and published more than 1,600 episodes, amplifying faith-based voices around the globe.

Robert is the original founder of the Evangelism Radio Station—an early online platform that broadcast Gospel-centered programming 24/7 and helped ministries reach the world for over 15 years with the message of Christ.

He is also the founder of JesusSaid.tv, an online television network devoted to helping ministries share and teach the Gospel using the latest technology in digital media.

Today, we’re going to talk about faith, media, and how ministries can expand their reach without compromising the message.”

<https://RedLetterCrusade.world>